Fraud Warning

Several calls from businesses in the Caledon area were placed to Caledon OPP to report a suspicious e-mail or fax that had been received by the local businesses.

The message received told a story of a mother of five who had recently lost her husband in an explosion in Lebanon. She requests the banking information of the recipient of the fax or e-mail which included their bank's name and address with account and routing number as well as their beneficiary name and address. The purpose is to safeguard large amounts of funds by transferring them to Canadian accounts. Person(s) willing to assist with this request are told that they would receive a percentage of the funds.

Caledon OPP would like to remind business owners and residents to never give out banking information over the Internet, fax, mail or telephone. For your protection, do not respond in any manner to requests of this nature; shred the faxes and delete the e-mails.

Domestic Disputes

Caledon OPP officers responded to seven domestic disputes between Feb. 12-18. No charges were laid.

International Women's Day event Special guests at wellness fair

March 8 is celebrated every year around the world as International Women's Day, recognizing the achievements of women in our community and across the globe.

This International Women's Day, the Peel Committee Against Woman Abuse (PCAWA) is presenting an evening of inspirational speakers and performers, combined with an invigorating wellness fair, from 5 to 10 p.m. at Sagan Convention Centre and Banquet Hall. The daytime celebration (1 to 5 p.m.) features keynote speaker Dini Petty.

The celebration will feature:

- * Award winning comedian Elvira Kurt who will have the audience roaring with laughter.
- * Dynamic speaker, psychologist Dr. Smita Vir Tyagi.
- * World renowned classical Indian dancer Menaka Thakkar's students will grace the stage with their mesmerizing dance.

* Cori Sandler and Deb Parent from Joyful Resistance, a women's drumming ensemble will shake the room with their scintillating world rhythms and soaring vocalizations.

While enjoying music and dance, participants will indulge in a relaxing wellness fair, including free makeovers, massages, and yoga demonstrations.

The event is coordinated by the PCAWA, in collaboration with Armagh, Dixie Bloor Neighbourhood Centre, Salvation Army Family Life Resource Centre, Sexual Assault Rape Crisis Centre of Peel, Peel Committee on Sexual Assault, Victim Services of Peel, & Victim Witness Assistance Program.

The PCAWA is a cross-sectoral collaborative comprised of the judicial, health and social services sectors in the Region of Peel. This active committee has been in existence for more than 20 years and its mandate is to promote a comprehensive and effective response to woman abuse in the Region of Peel and to work toward the eradication of violence against women and their children.

Tickets are $25 and $15 for seniors/students (includes buffet dinner). They're available by calling the Peel Committee Against Woman Abuse, 905-282-9792.

Thief makes off with vintage tractor parts

A Wildfield man has suffered a major setback, courtesy of a meticulous thief who stole several vintage parts from his 1950 Ford full-size tractor, parked in the backyard.

The man, who preferred not to be named, said the lone culprit (judging from the footprints in the snow) stole the parts during the evening between Feb. 20 and 21 from the property at Mayfield and Marysfield roads.

The thief knew exactly what he was doing and removed the battery, starter motor, ignition module, carburetor, float bowl and distributor coil, worth an estimated $1,800. The owner said he purchased the tractor roughly 12-14 years ago and rebuilt it from scratch to pristine condition. While the tractor was not damaged, the parts will be difficult, if not impossible, to replace.

The tractor was under a tarp roughly 60 feet from the back door of the residence. It was out in the open and the culprit obviously had a lot of nerve.

He's hoping the parts may surface, or if anyone knows about the incident, you can contact the owner at 905-867-2911.
