that reflects the Bolton Kinsmen's motto of serving the community's greatest needs.

The organization's primary charity is the Canadian Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation, though they also contribute toward local sports teams and clothing donations.

"Hopefully in the future with Family Day on a Monday, we're hoping for a three-day family day activity event with aspects such as ice sculptures and public skating allowing it evolve into a winter carnival," said Ward. "Other changes could also include the teams playing during the night with lights being added to allow more teams to be involved with the tournament."

They expect to add 48 teams or more.

Anyone interested in volunteering or getting involved with the Bolton Kinsmen or pond hockey tournament in the future, contact the Web site (www.canadianpondhockey.com) or the Kinsmen Centre (located on Chapel Street in Bolton).
