the courts, and personally engraved all the members' names on the benches. His pleasant personality welcomes all new members and he has organized many social events.

Vicki Stafford is currently president of Bolton Skating Club, and has earned the respect of the coaching staff for her ongoing contributions to the club to constantly improve the quality of the programs. Coaches reflect that she steps back, lets everyone perform their jobs and maintains communication.

Sports and Recreation Achievement

Erika Pugsley's passion since she was six has been figure skating. She became the first skater in the 43-year history of Bolton Skating Club to achieve quadruple gold status. She is currently Bolton's only competitive stream skater, competing at the novice ladies' level. She skates five days per week and trains at the Wellness centre three days per week.

Jennifer Yakimishyn started skating at seven and has been a member of the Bolton club ever since. She was the seconds skater to achieve quadruple gold status in all four disciplines of the Skate Canada test stream. She skates five days per week and shares her love and knowledge of the sport by teaching younger skaters three days per week.

Distinguished Citizens

Pearl Auer has been a special friend to many residents of the Davis Centre, providing many hours of volunteer service, including out trips, birthday parties, visiting and just making a difference in all she does. She is also president of the Helping Hands volunteers, and continues to provide service to the Davis Centre and the community through fund-raising events.

Jake Haines has served with the Caledon Optimists for 15 years, having held the positions of president and director. He ran the bicycle rodeo for five years, having 60 to 80 children go through the event annually. He has also assisted the club with many events, including the Caledon Haunted Hall, Respect for Law, pumpkin carving and Easter sunrise services.

Betty Johnston is currently president of both the Plowmen's Association and the Caledon East and District Historical Society. She has been a faithful canvasser for the Cancer Society for 15 years, as well as being instrumental in organizing the Macville School Craft Show.

Frances Johnston has been an active volunteer with the Albion — Bolton Agricultural Society and Peel 4-H for more than 30 years. She is always there helping in any way she can. She's also been on numerous executive committees of agriculture groups in Peel.

James Johnston has been an active volunteer with the Albion — Bolton Agricultural Society and Peel 4-H for more than 30 years. He was president from 1988 to '89 and has been chairman of the Bolton Dairy and 4-H. He has also been on the executives of numerous committees and agricultural groups in Peel.

Paul Johnston has been a dedicated volunteer on the Plowmen's Association for 15 years. He has also been a director with Heritage Caledon for three years and been a director on Providence Cemetery Board for 18 years. His volunteerism is helping to preserve Caledon's heritage.

Bonnie Masina has served on the Caledon Soccer Executive board for 10 years, and has dabbled in almost every piece of the club, dedicating countless hours to the youth of the community.

George Masina's contribution to the Caledon Soccer club has been remarkable. He has volunteered countless hours of his time for practices, games and field maintenance.

Patricia Shields is dedicated to the students and staff of Herb Campbell Public School. She is always willing to lend a hand and take on whatever responsibilities are necessary to ensure the students receive the best possible experiences. This has included various leadership roles for community and fund-raising initiatives. She also constantly boosts the morale of both students and staff with her ever upbeat manner.

David Snell's volunteer involvements have showcased traditional and current agricultural method at both the Peel — Dufferin Plowmen's Association (of which he's been president for two years, while being a director for 14) and Bolton Fall Fair. He has also been president and director of the Albion — Bolton Agricultural Society for more than 20 years.

Carol Williams has been a

4-H leader for life skills clubs for many years, having shown how to sew, cook, garden, fish and preserve nature, to name a few activities. She puts her heart and soul into everything she does, and has become like a mother to many.

Bruce Wilson is a long-standing member of the Albion — Bolton Agricultural Society for more than 30 years. He is always there for the Bolton Tractor pull and the Bolton Fall Fair set-up. His passion is antique tractors and he has been instrumental in arranging shows of them at the fair. He is very dedicated and reliable, and always has a solution to any problem.

Dr. George Wood routinely assists with education and training of veterinary students by participating in the Ontario Veterinary College externship program. He has spent six years as director of the Halton/Peel Holstein Club and 20 years as a 4-H leader, while also holding positions such as director of the 4-H Leaders' Association, Leader of the Peel Veterinary Club and Leader of the Brampton Dairy Calf Club.

Fires not the only calls firefighters deal with a new volunteer fire fighter joins the service, the expectation is that person will stay on the job for five to seven years. Bigrigg said that makes it more remarkable that they were honouring 20, 25 and 30 years of service.

As well, they do a lot more than just deal with fires. "We really are the 24-hour social safety net for the community," he declared.

The firefighters honoured last Tuesday for 10 years of service were Colin Berry, Geoffrey Hoar, Brian Littler, Roy Madersbacher, James Miller and Donald Rea. Those recognized for 15 years were Richard Capel, Colin Hanna, Darrin Mottershaw and James Van Stralen. Receiving 20-year recognition were Daniel Bond, Glenn Nash and John Wilkinson.

Captain Donald Lyons of the Cheltenham station was recognized for 25 years of service, and William Yetman of Bolton was cited for 30.

As far as the Town employees were concerned,

Dan Early was the most senior one receiving recognition, for 30 years with recreation and property services.

Receiving 25-year recognition were Glenn Blakely, Donna Rivada, William Tibben and John Taylor.

Those being honoured for 20 years were Janet Baigent Jill Cochrane, Broderick Crawford, Janet D'Onofrio, David McCaffrey, Carol Mohr and David Ostler.

Recognition for 15 years went to Norm Culp, Daniel Fagan, Nancy Gilmour, Nadia Koltun, Dave McCallum, Cindy Pilsworth, Gillian Smillie, Lisa Speirs, Lynn Teske and Rhys Thompson.

Ten-year recognition went to Beverly Axworthy, Andrea Brownsett, Sharon Hodges, Joseph Nagy, Anne Paznar and Brian Stoodley.

Those recognized for five years were Satch Beraldo, Casey Blakely, Hilary Burns, Brian Ewles, Peter Malkowski, James Montgomery, Sandra Morrison, Ronald Scheibe, Kim Walton and Gary Watson.

Mayor Marolyn Morrison spoke Monday at the Town's observances for National Day of Mourning.

Town marks National Day of Mourning

Town of Caledon council and staff maintain a proactive workplace health and safety program, with goals to reduce, improve and minimize injuries at work.

Day of Mourning ceremonies are held annually by council and staff at the Town. This year's ceremony was held Monday to coincide with national events that honour the millions of people whose lives have been forever changed by workplace incidents.

"It is critical that employers take a proactive approach to mitigate workplace injuries," said Mayor Marolyn Morrison. "The Town of Caledon's procedures, policies and standards heighten employee awareness and accountability throughout the corporation. The Day of Mourning is an opportunity for us all to restate our commitment to safety."

Town of Caledon employees take part in a comprehensive safety training course within days of beginning work with the municipality. Programs are developed by the Town's Health and Safety Coordinator to address workplace hazards specific to an employee's job function. Continuous improvement to the Town's safety program is guided by an internal Health and Safety Committee.

The Day of Mourning date of April 28 was chosen in 1984, when the Canadian Labour Congress proclaimed the day to coincide with the 70th anniversary of the day the first Ontario Worker's Compensation Act was approved by the government. The Day of Mourning was enshrined in national legislation by an Act of Parliament Feb. 1, 1991.
